The QHTA Early Career Conference provides an opportunity for beginning and experienced teachers who are new to teaching History to participate in targeted professional development, hands-on workshops and networking. In addition, participation will include opportunities for delegates to access online mentoring throughout the year with experienced teachers of History and the social sciences.

The QHTA Early Career Conference will include research-based and practical workshops on the following topics:

- Principles for effective unit and assessment design in History
- Building a toolbox of ready-to-use strategies and resources for your History classroom
- Embedding literacy strategies into your History lessons
- Formative assessment and feedback in History to enhance learning

Professional Standards Covered: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 & 7
