

Queensland History Week: Guess Who Activity

Guess Who #1

- I was born on the island of Mer in the Torres Strait in 1936.
- I grew up in a community deeply connected to the land and its traditions.
- I fought for the recognition of Indigenous land rights in Australia.
- I challenged the concept of terra nullius, which denied Indigenous people ownership of their land.
- I was a plaintiff in the landmark Mabo v Queensland (No 2) case, which led to the recognition of native title in Australian law.
- I am Eddie Mabo.

Guess Who #2

- I was born in Jeparit, Victoria, Australia, in 1894.
- I studied law at the University of Melbourne before entering politics.
- I served as the Prime Minister of Australia for a total of 18 years, making me the longest-serving Prime Minister in Australian history.
- I played a significant role in shaping Australian politics and policies during the mid-20th century.
- I founded the Liberal Party of Australia and led it to numerous electoral victories.
- I am Robert Menzies.

Guess Who # 3

- I was born in Portland, Victoria, Australia, in 1869.
- I was a prominent Australian suffragist and social reformer.
- I was instrumental in the campaign for women's suffrage in Australia, advocating for the right of women to vote and stand for election.
- I co-founded the Women's Political Association, the first women's suffrage society in Australia.
- I was the first woman in the British Empire to stand for election to a national parliament when I ran for the Australian Senate in 1903.
- I am Vida Goldstein.

